

SAVING CARNEY'S PROSPECTS

But Takes a Rap at the Methods of His Manager, Billy McCarty.

McCARTY NEEDS TO KNOW FINE POINTS

Says Knowledge of Scientific Boxing Is Most Important Thing for Him.

It appears he has written of his own experience in certain things that have appeared in this column pertaining to Luther McCarty.

While it makes "white" reference one way or the other what McCarty says or does, I am at a loss to understand why he makes me the "patron" when there is scarcely a sportsman writer of any note in the country who hasn't severely criticized the so-called "white heavyweight champion."

As for anything that has appeared in this column—well, I'll leave it to you, reader, if I have been unfair in my attitude toward McCarty. The fact is I've been rather lenient, and I've been in handling Luther, much more so than his stand since beating Palmer calls for. True, I recently did question his courage and business acumen in turning down a ten-thousand-dollar guarantee to meet

Bombardier Wells, and have referred to his disinclination to box Jess Willard, but, outside of an occasional mild stricture of the sort, have been inclined to boost the youngster.

For the benefit of those who do not know, I wish to state that Billy McCarty is McCarty's manager. With no desire to give McCarty any free advice, I feel that it is my duty to enlighten them on that point for future reference, for McCarty evidently thinks himself a "white" champion in the world of pugilism, albeit his name was unknown outside the circle of his intimate friends in juxtaposition to the jaw of Carl Morris about a year ago.

Luther became famous in a night, and McCarty became an overnight success at the same time—in his own estimation.

McCarty is like the majority of fight managers. When their charges win a few battles they swell with importance. To hear most of them, they are entitled to the praise and applause of the public. And when they get hold of a few dollars, they are "nigger rich" in all too sudden a jump from the pork and bean and free lunch routes to that state known to the select as "millionaire."

That's about enough for Mr. McCarty. I hope his next step will be to get on for wanting so much valuable space on the gentleman.

Luther McCarty, that young man looks like the most promising white heavyweight material developed in the last few years. He is a natural, and he is a fighter. The beatings he administered to Al Kaufman, Jim Flynn and Al Palmer stamped him as a capable instructor and trainer, a man who would devote more time and attention to teaching him the science of boxing than the financial end of it. I would not hesitate to predict a brilliant future for the cause of McCarty.

McCarty is a man who is not content to become champion some day in spite of the fact that McCarty is of little help to him in that connection.

It would be nothing to see him win the heavyweight championship. At the same time I believe he is making a mistake in trying himself up for fighting the best of the country. He is not a contender, and he has not the qualifications to meet him. He appeared publicly in New York recently, and he was beaten. He is a man who may help to convince him that his methods do not meet with the approval of the fans.

Nobody who follows boxing is more anxious to see a white fighter at the head of pugilism than I am. I am anxious to see him win the heavyweight title, but I am anxious to see him win the heavyweight title, but I am anxious to see him win the heavyweight title.

It is the suggestion to the principals to remove this quarrel to some locality where they permit the twenty-round affair. San Francisco and Los Angeles promoters would be glad to take the match, and it would prove one of the best drawing cards that could be framed for the fans.

I am inclined to the opinion that a longer battle would result in Rivers' favor. He is a better fighter. I use the term "fighter" to mean a man who is a fighter, and he is a fighter. He is a fighter, and he is a fighter. He is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

Anything in my power to help the cause, and without hope of personal gain. For instance, I have taken McCarty to my place in the country this summer and give him the benefit of the knowledge of boxing and the science of boxing. I have taken McCarty to my place in the country this summer and give him the benefit of the knowledge of boxing and the science of boxing.

The average manager is of little or no help to a young and ambitious boxer. It may be that time when he needs more than anything else is some one who can teach him something about the game. To win a championship a fighter must keep improving all the time, and it takes years to develop a man good enough to win the heavyweight title. It means hard work and plenty of it. The system of teaching out after all the easy coin in fight is all right as it goes, but if the manager with a likely prospect in tow could look a bit into the future he would do well to put him into the hands of a coach who would be made during the campaign for the title is insignificant, compared with the possibilities once the goal has been reached.

McCarty is an excellent prospect. That lets him out. He may be good enough to lick Willard and get the public and again he may not. The public would like to know what he can do with these things. He is a champion, and he is a champion. He is a champion, and he is a champion. He is a champion, and he is a champion.

I hope the report is true that McCarty is to meet "Gumbo" Smith at Madison Square Garden, N. Y. City. Since the latter beat Wells and one or two other heavyweights, he is a contender. It is no denying that "G. B." has one of the best of a wallow. Any time he connects with the right man, he means down and out for the going. It is a pity that the manager who has been so successful in the past should be so unsuccessful in the future.

Major Harrison of Chicago will pitch the ball to the first batsman when the Cubs open the season next Thursday.

DECISIONS WITHHELD UNTIL PLAYERS MAKE AN APPEAL

Umpires Must Decide Instantly on a Balk, as It Frequently Saves Trouble.

BY UMPIRE BILLY EVANS.

There seems to be a bit of doubt in the minds of some fans as to just what decisions are withheld by the umpire until an appeal is made by the players for such a decision. A Gotham fan, through the Sporting News, writes me the following query:

"Does the umpire refrain from calling a balk on the pitcher instantly call an interference when the catcher tips the batter's bat, or does he wait for an appeal?"

The two questions asked by the New Yorker are two rulings that demand an immediate decision by the umpire, no appeal being necessary. When, in the opinion of the umpire, the pitcher has committed an offense which comes under the balk rule, it becomes at once the duty of the umpire to call the balk, and immediately suspended, and no matter what happens it is null and void.

There are two cases where the umpire makes a balk with the bases filled. The first is when the pitcher is in the act of throwing the ball, and the second is when the pitcher is in the act of throwing the ball, and the second is when the pitcher is in the act of throwing the ball.

Capital City Chess and Checker Club Notes.
While emerging victorious by a score of 8 to 7, the Capital City Chess and Checker Club, with an unexpected strong opposition in its recent match with Baltimore. On the heels of the latter's victory some time ago over a local team a challenge was issued by the Capital City Chess and Checker Club to the Baltimore team. A team consisting of fifteen of its strongest players made the trip to Baltimore, and while confined exclusively to club members, included practically all the players well known to local followers of the game during the last five or six years, only two strong members, Lovell and Roberts, being present. It has been confidently expected that the Capital City team would outclass the Orioles club players on the last ten boards, but the result of the contest was in doubt up to the rather exciting finish, where the issue of the match depended on the last game, between the first-board players, Prof. Melancthon and Zapolow.
